STATE NORMALS FACE SHORTAGE OF A MILLION

Board of Regents Decides to Continue Operation of Schools on Basis of Last Appropriations

REGENTS ACT TO PUT PROBLEM UP TO GOVERNOR BLAINE

Leave it to Executive to Determine Whether Special Session is Needed

MADISON, Wis.—By the Associated Press.—Confronted with a shortage of funds estimated by its secretary to amount to $1,000,000 for the coming year, the state board of normal regents at its meeting today voted to continue in force the operation of Wisconsin's nine normal schools on the basis of the appropriation allowed for the year 1922-23.

Failure of the 1923 legislature to grant an appropriation for the coming biennium forced the board to consider the policy to be followed in spending the $1,300,000 available for the coming school year. Action was taken to bring the whole situation before Governor Blaine in order that he may determine whether a special session of the legislature would be needed to assure operation of the schools.

Put Action Up To Blaine

Clough Gates, regent from Superior, quoted the governor as advising him that the normal school should operate as in the past until an emergency arose. When that time came, Governor Blaine is said to have indicated, he would take action to relieve the situation.

To assure normal school teachers that they will retain their tenure and continue to be employed under old laws, Regent Gates introduced a resolution instructing the educational committee at the next meeting of the board to bring in a report recommending which of the rules governing contract relations with teachers, suspended at a former board meeting, may be immediately re-enacted. It being the desire of the board to re-enact all of such rules as may legally be upheld.

The resolution by Mr. Gates set out that "it now seems feasible to continue in full number the teaching positions at all schools and further to carry out most of contract rules with the teachers."

Milwaukee Dispute Held Up

A resolution introduced by Miss Lillian Stearns, Milwaukee, if adopted would give the incoming president of the Milwaukee Normal school authority to reorganize departments in that institution and make changes in the teaching staff. This resolution was referred to committee to be acted upon probably at the afternoon meeting.

Normal school regents indicated at the meeting that they had little apprehension about their ability to obtain sufficient funds to continue operation of the institutions, despite the failure of the legislature to allow their appropriations. They expressed the opinion that Governor Blaine, through a call for a special session or through the emergency board, would be able to take care of all actual needs.

A business committee was instructed to work out a policy to be followed in spending available funds, and for obtaining additional money when an emergency arises due to shortage.

D. G. MACMILLAN RETIRES FROM NATIONAL GAUGE AND EQUIPMENT COMPANY TODAY

NOTED BOTANIST IS OPPOSED TO RIVER DRAINAGE

Prof. L. H. Pammel of Iowa State Agricultural College Scores Winneshiek Project

LAND WORTH MORE NOW THAN AS FARM LANDS HE ASSERTS

Professor to Visit Scout Camp and Trempealeau

L. H. PAMMEL, well known professor of botany in the Iowa State College of Agriculture, is one of the most ardent conservationists in the middle west. He is president of the Iowa State Conservation board, having held that office for several years. When interviewed by a Tribune reporter Tuesday morning he expressed himself as being unalterably opposed to the proposed drainage of the Winneshiek bottom lands between Lynxville and DeSoto.

"The area is worth more as water lands than it ever could be as agricultural lands," said the professor. "There is some good farm land there, but experience has taught that such reclaimed land will never be worth the price of draining it. The Winneshiek bottoms are known everywhere as being among the best natural breeding places for fish and animal life in the country."

"In addition to the need for keeping the land in its present state for the preservation of the wild life, it is also necessary, if the farm lands bordering the Mississippi river are to continue fertile, to keep the water here instead of sending it all down to the Gulf of Mexico," he said.

"Statistics show," continued the professor, "that the water level of the state of Iowa has fallen twelve feet in fifty years. That is an alarming rate, and the condition should be remedied at once. Reformation of the river banks and levees leading from the river would help greatly in relieving this situation."

At Scout Camp

The professor will spend Wednesday and Thursday at the Boy Scout camp near Hunter's Bridge, instructing the boys in the principles of conservation. He will also, during his visit here, take a trip to Trempealeau to investigate the drainage project which has been completed north of Trempealeau mountain.

WOMAN RE-MARRIES; COURT ANNULS HER DIVORCE DECREE

JANESVILLE, Wis.—Judge George F. Grimm, sitting in circuit court, annulled the divorce granted to Mrs. Lela Sarow Burton against her husband Earl Sarow, carpenter, of Milwaukee and former resident of Janesville last Monday. The marriage of Mrs. Sarow a few days after the divorce to the Reverend Leland Marion, a widower, and at the time pastor of the Christian church here, was the moving reason for the decision, according to the judge. Marion is now pastor of the First Christian church at Whiting, Ind. No action can be taken here for bigamy notwithstanding Mrs. Sarow Marion now has two husbands but notice of the findings will be sent to the prosecuting attorney of Lake county, Indiana.

HINDUS AND MOHAMMEDANS IN CLASH; FIVE KILLED

ATMERE, British India.—By The Associated Press.—A serious clash between Hindus and Mohammedans here Monday evening resulted in the killing of five persons and the injury of several others. Before the troops which were called out to assist the police succeeded in restoring order, the Mohammedans attacked a Hindu procession and also the Balaji temple. Flags and drums carried by the paraders were destroyed. The police were roughly handled by the rioters.

SELLS HIS STOCK TO COMPANY AFTER SUCCESSFUL YEARS

P. M. Gelatt is New President of Big Local Manufacturing Firm

ANNOUNCEMENT was made today of the retirement of D. G. Macmillan from the presidency and directorate of the National Gauge and Equipment company and the sale of his stock to the company. At the same time Mr. Macmillan disposed of his interests in the Northern Engraving company, a subsidiary firm.

While details of the transaction were not announced, it was said to be one of the largest business deals made in La Crosse in connection with a manufacturing plant in years.

Elect New Officers

New officers of the National Gauge and Equipment company are: P. M. Gelatt, president; J. M. La Vague, vice president and treasurer; P. E. Stroup, of Detroit, vice president in charge of sales; J. E. Richmond, secretary. Mr. Gelatt was vice president and secretary of the company before the retirement of Mr. Macmillan from the firm.

The National Gauge and Equipment company was incorporated in spring of 1915 after the purchase of the business of the Hans Motor Equipment company, an insolvent firm. Mr. Macmillan served as trustee of the Hans company in 1914 and with Mr. Gelatt formed the new company, which has since operated successfully and has built up one of the two largest manufacturing enterprises in the city.

Has Big Payroll

The National Gauge company now employs 950 persons and the firm makes 90 per cent of the dash gauges used by automobiles manufactured in the United States. When this company was organized in 1915 the firm employed 30 persons.

In 1921 the company called in the preferred stock holding the issue at $110 per share, $10 more than par.

POINCARÉ GUARDS REPLY TO BE MADE TO BRITISH NOTE

Cabinet Members Consulted by Premier But are Pledged to Secrecy

BRUSSELS.—By the Associated Press.—Exchanges of views between Paris and Brussels have developed the fact that Premier Poincaré and Thunin are in perfect agreement on the fundamental questions raised in the British memorandum and the prospect for an identical reply to Germany's reparations proposals, according to authoritative information.

PARIS.—By The Associated Press.—Members of the French cabinet Tuesday were given their first view under the veil beneath which the latest stage of the reparations negotiations has been concluded. It is understood that Premier Poincaré demanded of his colleagues the same vow of secrecy that he exacted from the officials of the foreign office before he set forth the broad lines of the reply he proposed to make in agreement with the Belgian government to the British reparations communication.

The French as a whole are making it a point of honor, it appears, to keep faith with the British government and not to divulge any part of the contents of the documents.

DOLLY QUINN MAY BE ARRAIGNED IF SHE CAN BE FOUND

Dolly Quinn may be arraigned in county court to answer to a charge of driving an automobile while intoxicated, provided her lawyer, A. C. Wolfe, can find her. "I see by the papers that Miss Quinn has returned to the city," remarked Judge Bradley Tuesday morning. "You know she should have been here last week. She didn't appear so her $100 bail was forfeited." Mr. Wolfe was interviewed as Dolly Quinn? he was asked, "I don't know," he replied. "The police, so I hear, saw her in town a day or so ago. If I can find her I will try to induce her to appear in court."

NEW NO LEFT TURN LAW AT MAIN AND FOURTH ADOPTED

Council Adopts New Traffic Regulation at Special Meeting on Monday

ORDER BIDS FOR DREDGING SLOUGH AND BATHING BEACHES

Black River to be Dredged from Railroad Bridge South

NO left turn of vehicles at intersection of Fourth and Main streets will be a new order put in force by the police department within a few days following the adoption of an ordinance by the common council at its special meeting Monday night.

The ordinance will prohibit turning to the left of any vehicle approaching the intersection from any direction and was enacted by the council with a view to a more consistent regulation of traffic on the city's busiest corner. Motorists will be compelled to encircle a complete square in order to enter the street to the driver's left.

Effective Later

Announcement of the date when the ordinance will take effect will be made by the board of public works after the new law has been published officially.

Among other matters consummated at the special session in which there is considerable interest to the city at large is the ordering of advertisements for bids for dredging the Isle La Plume slough, new bathing beaches for both the north and south sides, and of Black river from the Milwaukee railroad bridge to a point opposite Clinton street.

The above dredging proposals have been before the council since early in the year and have been held up pending the decision on purchase of a city dredge and the city engineer's estimates of the work. After comparison of figures which revealed that the work could be done more economically by the employment of privately owned apparatus, the council Monday night voted to advertise for bids for the proposed work.

To Cover Isle La Plume

In connection with the dredging of Isle La Plume slough the council decided that the pipes would be emptied onto the island, covering it with the materials dredged out and thus prevent the possibility of fires such as the one which has given firemen a task for the past two weeks. Further dumping of refuse would then be prohibited and the entire section of the city converted into a more sanitary district. Alderman Iodice advanced the idea of covering the island, after he and Mayor J. J. Verchota had reviewed the situation last Saturday.

Because of the heavy drain on the water supply in fighting the fire at the island at the present time, the board of public works was instructed to procure a barge and use the old steam pumper at Central fire station in supplying the water from the river. A patrol will also be kept on the island to watch for new outbreaks of fire until it is well within control.

Residents bordering on the streets were permitted at their request to brick pave the alley between Seventh and Eighth and Seventeenth streets, in accordance with the plans of the board of public works.

The council accepted the report of the mayor's special committee with reference to paving on Front and King street and ordered the crossing intersected by the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad tracks paved with brick.

Amend Ordinance

An ordinance prohibiting the driving of vehicles with lugged wheels over one-eighth of an inch long over the city streets was amended, and such vehicles may pass over the city streets subject to permission and a designated route given by the board of public works.

The Tribune mis-stated the action of the council at the regular July meeting when it reported that the preamble and resolution referring to "unauthorized expenditures of the board of education would stand as a record of the council." The preamble, however, in which it was stated that the board of education made "unauthorized expenditures," was withdrawn in view of the author's misunderstanding in the council chamber. The resolution remains as a record of the council merely as a guidance for the future.

The La Crosse City band will give a public concert in Riverside park Thursday evening of this week. The concert will start at 7:45. Antelists are requested to abide by the usual regulations.

PUBLIC OFFICIAL IS KILLED DURING FRANKFURT RIOTS

Disorder Follows Communist Meeting of Protest Held on Monday

LONDON, July 24.—By The Associated Press.—Reuter's Berlin correspondent confirms reports of communist disturbances in Frankfurt. He says it was the public prosecutor, Dr. Haas, who was knocked down in the street and killed Monday and that his wife and father were maltreated.

In response to an appeal from the social democratic and communist parties and the trade unions about 100,000 persons demonstrated against "usury and fascism," the Reuter message states. After the meeting of the demonstrators adjourned, collisions with the police occurred in various parts of the town. All the shops, the message adds, were closed.

Dr. Haas' wife and father were injured while the prosecutor's private residence was being ransacked, and Dr. Haas was so severely handled that he succumbed. The police eventually restored order.

In view of the seriousness of the situation Governor Noske of Hanover province, Northwestern Germany, has prohibited all open air meetings next Sunday, the correspondent states. This date is the one originally fixed by the communists for anti-fascist demonstrations.

Mr. Owen, who was appointed city attorney by the city council in April, will serve Mr. Simpson's unexpired term of three and a half years.

PEACE TREATY SIGNED TODAY AT LAUSANNE

Establishment of Peace Between Turkey and Rest of Europe Comes After Twelve Years of Warfare

EASTERN THRACE RETURNED TO TURKEY UNDER THE AGREEMENT

Nation Admitted to League of Nations on Footing of Equality

LAUSANNE.—By the Associated Press.—The Lausanne peace treaty formally establishing peace between the European powers and Turkey, was signed Tuesday.

By the treaty Turkey regains eastern Thrace and becomes the bridge between the east and the west. She joins the league of nations on a footing of equality.

Constantinople goes definitely to Turkey. All foreign troops will be withdrawn. The treaty makes peace between Greece and Turkey.

It permits the patriarch of the Greek orthodox church to remain in Constantinople.

Shifts Populations

It launches one of the most stupendous human movements in history by its compulsory exchange of population. The Greeks in Turkey return to Greece and the Turks in Greece return to Turkey.

It fails to solve the Armenian problem, Armenians being obliged to find new havens.

It reduces Turkey's size by recognition of detached mandated states like Syria, Mesopotamia, and Palestine.

It rids Turkey of judicial capitulations, as China vainly sought to accomplish at Washington and which Japan achieved only after two decades of struggle.

Treated as Other Nations

In only one way is Turkey treated differently from other countries. Foreign legal advisors will be empowered to receive complaints relating to arrests and imprisonments of foreigners.

The American diplomatic representatives, headed by Joseph C. Grew, minister to Switzerland, were prominent in all the sessions of the conference. As observers they played a dominating role in the last phases.

Turkey, which has been at war for twelve consecutive years, although vanquished in the world war as an ally of Germany, came to the council table at Lausanne a victorious nation. Turkey's reconstructed armies under Ismet Pasha, had completely routed the Greek forces.

Seven Nations Sign

The general treaty, formally ending the state of war, was signed by Great Britain, France, Italy, Japan, Greece, Rumania and Turkey.

Jugo-Slavia announced at the last minute her refusal to sign, on the ground that to do so would be harmful to her national interests. The treaty distributes the Ottoman debt among countries like Jugo-Slavia which acquired parts of the former Ottoman empire.

Jugo-Slavia maintains that she annexed her former Turkish territory as the result of the Balkan wars and not as a consequence of the general European or Turco-Greek wars. She prefers, therefore, to abide by the treaties of London and Bucharest which fixed the political status of the Balkans. She has agreed to negotiate directly with the European powers regarding her possible responsibility in connection with the Turkish debt.

The general treaty comprises 143 articles, divided into five parts—political, financial, economic, communications, and general clauses. The commercial section stipulates the application of the Turkish tariff, inaugurated in 1916, multiplied by a co-efficient corresponding to the depreciation of the Turkish currency.

The great amount of work done by Near East peace conference, of which the peace signed today is the outcome, is indicated by the number of documents produced.

LAW AFFECTING BANK TAXATION EFFECTIVE NOW

Plans to Tax National Bank Stock Outlined in Letter to Assessors

MADISON, Wis., July 23.—Plans for the taxation of national bank stock on a basis of capital stock were announced by the state tax commission this week in a circular letter to all assessors. There has been considerable confusion in taxing banks incorporated by the national government because of a decision of the United States supreme court which set at naught the old law for bank taxation in Wisconsin. A new law was enacted at the last session of the legislature.

Congress provided that the authorities of the several states might tax all real estate of national banks the same as other real estate and also to tax the capital stock as property or the income from the bank. That what ever of these latter methods is selected excludes the other. Both cannot be used.

Under the new law enacted in Wisconsin real estate owned by banks is required to be separately assessed in the same manner and on the same basis as other real estate. The aggregate value of the capital stock should then be determined, according to the tax commission, based on capital, surplus and undivided profits, volume of business and earnings; the assessed value of all real estate owned by the bank to the extent that it entered into the valuation of the stock may be deducted from the aggregate stock value; the remainder of the stock value divided by the number of shares outstanding and the quotient applied to the number of shares held by each stockholder will give the assessment to be made against him in the district in which the bank is located.

The letter of the tax commission points out that while the law was not published until July 12, the terms of the measure direct that it shall be applied to the 1923 assessment.

The picture showed that in the man's stomach there were tacks, pins, collar buttons, keys and other objects too numerous to mention. Bartelle, who at times he even carries razor blades, Bartelle's stomach was found to be much larger than that of ordinary persons and in a lower position, also much thicker.

EKERN DENOUNCES "KEPT PRESS" FOR ATTACK ON STATE

Attorney General in Resume of Accomplishments of Badger Progressives

MADISON, Wis., July 23.—(By The Associated Press).—An attack of the "kept press" coupled with a defense of the political movement headed by Senator Robert M. La Follette, which he says is being criticized unfairly by newspapers, is made by Attorney General Herman L. Ekern, in a formal statement issued today.

The Wisconsin attorney general, regarded more than any other person in the state government as a personal representative of Senator La Follette, outlines the accomplishments of the Progressive Republicans in Wisconsin during the past 20 years. His statement is a defense of the citizens of Wisconsin and Minnesota who have elected progressives to represent them in congress and state governments.

"It is because Wisconsin and Minnesota have become imbued with those principles of democracy that seek to advance the welfare of the masses as against the interests of the few that these states have incurred the hatred and the enmity of the kept press of which the Chicago Tribune is a conspicuous example," Attorney General Ekern said. The attorney general quoted from an editorial in the Chicago Tribune referring to the "Alienism" of Wisconsin, and then quoted Senator La Follette as saying that the emigrant population of the state "combined with the pioneer stock from New England has produced a hardy, conscious, aggressive race who are still pioneers in democracy and human progress."

"This sturdy citizenship to which Senator La Follette refers," Mr. Ekern declared, "has blazed the way to a greater democracy. It has developed a state with a public consciousness which demands that the welfare of the many shall be preferred to the interests of the few."

"It is this citizenship that has built here a commonwealth that for a quarter of a century has been free from the taint of corruption and has made the highest ideals an integral part of the public service. It is a state in which the real spirit of the founders of this principle has attained its highest fulfillment and in which the ideal of Americanism, in its best sense has been achieved. Thirty years ago, Wisconsin established and enforced the principle, since scrupulously maintained, that the interest on public funds belong to the public. It has always maintained public order."

"Wisconsin was the first state to shake off the boss and the corrupt political machine. Still earlier, Wisconsin inaugurated the movement under which the railroads, public utilities and other big interests have been compelled to pay their share of the taxes the same as the farmer and home owner. It was again the pioneer in a successful income tax."

"Wisconsin led the nation in saying that the health of the people shall not be endangered to produce profits for makers of impure foods. It led the way in safeguarding life and limb on the railroads and in industry and again in substituting for the personal injury law suit a certain relief through a liberal workmen's compensation."

"This is but part of the illustrious story of the struggles for democracy in Wisconsin in the past 20 years. These great social accomplishments were made possible because of the responsive cords touched by the hearts of the liberty-loving people of Wisconsin who with their descendants came so largely from Germany, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Ireland, Poland and other European countries."

"The assault now being made on Wisconsin by the kept press is no new thing. It is the attack that is always made upon any man or group of men who seek to place public welfare above organized greed."

"The people are being aroused. The influence of these controlled newspapers is steadily waning. This attack upon a large part of the backbone of the substantial citizenry of the Middle West and the threat of the economic lash with which the Tribune article ends will not increase the confidence of the people in either the editorial or the news columns of the kept press."

Mr. and Mrs. George Phillips, farmers residing in Wilson township were fined $435 today by Municipal Judge S. W. Gleason at St. Charles when they pleaded guilty to liquor charges growing out of activities of federal agents in Winona county Saturday evening.

Mrs. Phillips was arraigned on a charge of selling moonshine liquor and was fined $150 and costs. Mr. Phillips was charged with maintaining a nuisance by manufacturing intoxicating liquor. He also was fined $150 and costs. The costs brought the total amount of the fine to $435.

day on $250 bail each. Police said a quantity of liquor was found in their car.

WILL URGE ALFALFA USE AT FARMERS' INSTITUTES

EAU CLAIRE, Wis.—Growing alfalfa will be the main topic for farmers' institutes this winter, County Agent E. S. Levrich says. Recent inspection by the county agent and E. L. Luther, superintendent of farm institutes, showed that alfalfa can be a profitable crop on the various soils of Eau Claire county if the precautions of drainage, liming with crushed lime stone, and selection of good seed are observed.

FOLLOW GOOD
SBE that none render evil for evil unto any man; but ever follow that which is good, both among yourself and to all men.—Thessalonians, 5: 15.

What Next?

CONSERVATIVE Americans who fear the consequences of political control by the mid-western and northwestern farm influences, may do well to consider the other alternative presented by the sweep of American thought from conservatism into progressivism, and now toward radicalism. Wells, the historian, has studied modern Russia. Senator Brookhart has just returned from a brief visit, probably to tell us all about it. Others have gone and returned—scholars, reactionaries, and radicals each after the proof of his own pudding, casual visitors. Most of them have seen what Soviet government chose to show them. Only occasionally do we find one who penetrated to the depths. Such an one is Jacob H. Rubin, former Milwaukee socialist, who hastened to what he thought was to be the world's Atlantis. He came back, still an evangelist of the theory that man is his brother's keeper, but holding up his hands in horror at what he had seen. For he had worked from the inside, and seen the Russian monster in its gore.

Early this week Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, warned the United States government against recognition of Soviet Russia because, he said, every Russian consulate in the United States would be a revolutionary headquarter aimed to overthrow this government and establish the shotgun rule of a proletarian dictatorship. Later in the week John L. Lewis, president of the Mine Workers International, revoked the charter of a Nova Scotia union mining district and set up a provisional government there because that district had been turned into a revolutionary machine which President Lewis characterized as an effort "to strike down the established institutions of the government."

Turn from this to a Chicago Tribune headline, "Fear Johnson Victory Means Radical Sweep," and the point is apparent. Trample on the things represented by the American farm movement in politics, and we invite the "lunatic fringe" of America, foreign revolutionists, and dangerous radicals of all sorts, to make common cause with the American trade unionists and the American farmer in his distress. The savagery of man is barely submerged by the thing we call civilization. It tends to rise to the surface with every commotion. In England archeologists find remains of the Roman civilization in excavations from six to 35 feet beneath the earth's surface. In 1913 we laughed at war as an impossibility.

The Real Problem

IT IS the most natural thing in the world for people to consider American agricultural depression from a political standpoint. We are always interested in who comes up and who goes down in politics. We even commit the absurdity of considering problems of relief for the farmer more or less with relation to the political effect of relief measures.

Of course this isn't at all the big thing. Were farming to cease, populations would soon starve to death. Millions upon millions would perish within a year or two. Civilization would crash to chaos. And so it is not even the well-being of the farmer himself that holds first place. We must keep agriculture going to feed the world. In order to keep agriculture going, we must make farming sufficiently attractive to hold people upon the soil. Perhaps more than because of its vices and excesses, Rome fell because its farmers had become serfs. Farm serfdom would snuff out today's civilization without a doubt. Statesmen who interest themselves in these matters must consider something more than votes, although the prudent statesman knows that he must have the votes in order to effectuate his program.

Should the farm bloc rise to power, what will it do to stabilize the industry of farming? This is a tremendous responsibility. It will rest upon the shoulders of those who come to leadership within the next two years. They seek the opportunity and must accept the responsibility. They may well consider what would be the penalty of failure.

Fix Them

MEMORY does not serve exactly to inform one just how long the street-car crossings along Gillette street have been putting automobile traffic over the high jumps, but it is a long time. It seems that no exigency of paving methods can have stretched the time to a period of months. No doubt there is a good reason for the continued delay in completing the street paving, due to non-arrival of material or some similar unpreventable contingency. But that offers an excuse only, and not a reason, for allowing the crossings to remain in their present shape. A temporary crossing that will permit cars to pass without danger to springs and axles could have been installed with a few hours labor and a dozen planks at Kane street, and perhaps at some of the other important crossings of the line, literally months ago. The installation should be delayed no longer. Perhaps because there are three parties involved in the work on Gillette street—the city, the paving contractor and the street car company—it has been nobody's specific business to see that the crossings are put in shape. If that is the case, it would seem the duty of the city to take the necessary action, either to require the work to be done by the party to whose share it legally falls, or to do the work itself and present the bill. For these two-mile-an-hour crossings are serious inconvenience to the 3,700 motorists of the city, to say nothing of offering a positive danger to visitors who may strike them unaware at ordinary speed.

The Reactions of Mabel

Carter Keith, owner and editor of the Evansville "Clarion," sat at his desk and scanned the proof sheets of the weekly edition.

Suddenly he paused and cocked one eye reflectively ceilingward. So Mabel was coming home. Home to quiet little Evansville after four years at a women's college in the city.

What, he speculated, would be the result? How would Mabel react to the drab environment of her birthplace, whose chief dissipation was a strawberry festival, whose chief source of uplift was an occasional Chautauqua? Well, there was a vast field for Mabel's influence. Carter decided. A vast and hitherto unfurrowed field.

And in the weeks that followed Carter lent an occasional editorial pen to the preparation of that field for the seeds of Mabel's sowing.

Miss Mabel Chester, adopted her part as taken in the Shakespearean play presented by her sorority on Friday last. Perhaps with her advent the old Dramatic club of Evansville will awaken to new triumphs.

"With pleasure Evansville welcomes the imminent return of Miss Mabel Chester," a native daughter who will undoubtedly bring with her great inspiration from her contact with the neighboring metropolis which will redound to the advantage of our town."

"Miss Mabel Chester on her arrival on Monday's noon train commented favorably on the improved appearance of Main street. 'An imposing structure,' she characterized Eb Clark's new hardware store. 'So say I.'"

"As a matter of fact, 'some little gift shop' would have been a more accurate interpretation of Mabel's remark, but Carter, loyal to the reputation for her, had edited as he saw fit. Since school days Carter had had Mabel more or less on his mind and now, although she had grown up, he did not seem to find it easy to shift the responsibility.

Not only, however, through the medium of his paper did Carter seek to aid and abet Mabel in an effort to uplift Evansville.

"You're a wonderful opportunity," he told her solemnly on the occasion of his first call. "Here is an entire town sunk in intellectual apathy. You're the only one who's guiding hand that summons us upward."

"You—you are very confident of my abilities," said Mabel, regarding him doubtfully.

"But the advantages you have had! Why, you owe it to yourself to expand, to develop, to unfold! It would be a crime buying your talent coldly."

"Wait," interrupted the girl coldly. "Remember, my dear Carter, you are not writing an endorsement. You're who's been married or jilted while I was gone."

But Evansville backed up Carter. Mabel was excited to a wonderful extent making and of the town's approving. She was asked to speak at church societies on "Ways to Improve Evansville." Her advice was sought regarding the curricula of the local schools. She was made a member of the library board and expected to pass on all proposed additions to the tiny one-room library.

Carter himself hunted up the old members of the Dramatic club, gathered them into a somewhat reluctant session, and spurred them into voting Mabel in as president. He was indefatigable in the plans he suggested for the gradual stimulation of what he termed a "long time dead and buried community." And it was Carter himself who brought about Evansville's first—and only, let us add—literary picnic.

The idea was that the entire population of Evansville was to turn out and betake themselves with basket lunches to a certain popular grove reserved for picnic of any kind. During the meal, Carter was to declaim and Mabel was to read from our best authors. After dinner speeches were to follow on Evansville's special needs. Then, replete with food and information, the picknickers were to scatter beneath the trees for quiet discussions.

"That, what, Carter?" demanded Mabel endeavoring to free herself from his encircling arms.

"That—that I couldn't sleep nights," said Carter feebly. Then, rallying, he stopped further words with a tender kiss.

And at that precise moment Evansville slumped once more into its deplorable but contented state of intellectual apathy.

OUT OUR WAY

WHEN BUSINESS INTERFERES WITH PLEASURE. J. R. WILLIAMS

The programme was followed as far as the first two items were concerned. From that point on, however, we are concerned alone with Carter and Mabel.

Beneath a spreading maple by the river's brim Carter lay stretched at Mabel's side while she read from the younger poets for several minutes. Suddenly, however, she stopped and closed the book with vehemence. In fact, it looked for a second as if she were about to cast the delicate little volume from her.

Then, Carter, she began and her eyes were blazing. "I think you are to blame for all this tomfoolery!"

"Carter, what a silly, silly, silly! What tomfoolery do you mean?" he asked.

"Way—all this unlifting business! As if I had nothing to do but reform Evansville! I am sick to death of hearing of my wonderful advantages and unparalleled opportunities and—out what's the use?"

"You're possessed with it all and so I could not make you understand. Before I came home, I did have a little bit of an idea that I could do something perhaps to stir up the town. I had even made a few plans for civic improvements and activities. Now I never want to hear of such a thing again."

Mabel gazing mournfully down the river as one who watches vanishing illusions, failed to catch Carter's little satisfied nod and the smile in his eyes. But the sudden feel of his strong young arms about her startled her completely from her reverie.

"Dear little girl," said Carter tenderly. "I'll never mention uplift to you again. You'll just marry me! I was so afraid when you came home you would become absorbed in all sorts of schemes that—"

"That, what, Carter?" demanded Mabel endeavoring to free herself from his encircling arms.

"That—that I couldn't sleep nights," said Carter feebly. Then, rallying, he stopped further words with a tender kiss.

And at that precise moment Evansville slumped once more into its deplorable but contented state of intellectual apathy.

NATIONAL GUARD COMPANIES ARE COMPLETE UNITS

Each Company Operates With Commanding Officer and Staff of Junior Officers

THREE REGIMENTS TO TRAIN AT DOUGLAS THIS SUMMER

Co-operation is Great Lesson Taught by Training

CAMP DOUGLAS, Wis.—A company of infantry or a troop of cavalry, the same unit, is a complete organization in itself. It is commanded by a captain, who is assisted by junior officers, first and second lieutenants and non-commissioned officers ranking from the first sergeant to the junior lance or acting corporal. A company of course is part of a higher unit, a battalion which in turn is a part of a regiment which belongs to a brigade, which is part of a division and then on up to a field army. But it is an independent unit and functions within itself with a headquarters, staff and command.

Every soldier belongs to a company. It is his family with his squad as his immediate relations. In the National Guard these companies are located in different cities and communities. At camp they are assembled in regiments and function within this regiment.

Drill Each Week

At the home station the company drills once a week, the period not less than one-and-a-half hours. For this the soldier gets $1 a drill with the higher grades compensation in accordance with their rank. At camp the men and officers receive regular army pay. Every soldier, excepting the officers, receives all clothing, arms, equipment and rations and medical attention free of charge. The enlistment period is from one to three years. Veterans can sign up for one year.

At Camp Douglas at this training camp period there are three regiments, the 127th and 128th infantry regiments, the 105th cavalry regiment, the 32nd tank company and auxiliary troops such as medical corps company and staff and general staff officers.

The first week's training is devoted entirely to company drill, close order and extended order. Close order drill is disciplinary, that is such movements as fours, right and left, turns and wheels. They make the men disciplined soldiers, moveable and learned in the great art of working and acting together and in cohesion. Open or extended order drill are action formations in which the men are trained in approach, that is advancing under fire on an objective, the attack and assault.

The second week's work puts this training, which has been in the form of a review of the year's work at their home stations into actual practice in the form of combat problems, maneuvers and sham battles. Here the companies become parts of squadrons and regiments and act as such. The men learn what fire discipline and fire control mean. In combat problems, silhouette targets, made of board are used to represent the enemy and ball ammunition is used.

Firing on Range

It is an entirely different matter firing on a range under the most advantageous conditions and battle firing. But target practice makes for coolness and deliberateness under combat conditions and the men are given training in both.

The great lesson of all this training is co-operation. The men learn graphically what it means to work together. Individual effort counts, but only as one individual works with another. Not only in the field but in interior duty such as kitchen police, stable police for the cavalry and artillery and guard. Every man, excepting officers and non-commissioned officers must do his shift at kitchen police and in the cavalry, stable police. Everyone does guard duty. All these fatigues are 24 hour duties. The posting of a guard is called guard mount and is one of the most ancient and beautiful ceremonials in the military service. As far back as the Greeks, the changing of the guard was a daily ceremonial of beauty dignity and responsibility.

Detailed to Duty

The company commander details men and officers for these duties. He runs what is called a duty and guard roster, a regulation form used in all armies. It is a roster of the company and is run without discrimination. It is subject to monthly inspection of a higher commander and is one of the important documents of every unit. The company commander alone makes these details which are of the utmost importance.

The next article will describe Guard Mount. There are three important functions an old soldier once said for every man of service, revolve, retreat and Guard Mount. In this ceremony a company proves its worth of being called a company of soldiers and men.

NORDMAN DENIES HE'S OPPOSED TO CO-OP MOVEMENT

Commissioner of Markets Issues Statement Refuting Reports Circulated in State

MADISON, Wis.—Edward Nordman, commissioner of markets, has issued a statement denying circulated reports that he is opposed to the co-operative movement.

"Co-operation and organization are indispensable to the improvement of conditions in agriculture," according to the statement. "The very nature of agricultural production makes organization and combination of effort imperative. Unlike other industries where workmen are concentrated in one place, farmers are scattered over large areas and they live at a distance, quite often a considerable one, from each other. Under such conditions they cannot market their products to the best advantage unless they co-operate, pool their products and ship them to market in large quantities.

"Co-operation is of inestimable value in the improvement of business methods in farming. The individual farmer does not have much time to look after the marketing side of his enterprise. He has very little spare time to locate the best places to market his products, and to buy his supplies. By uniting on the basis of co-operation with other farmers, he is in a position to engage the services of a competent manager and make him responsible to the co-operative association. The manager keeps in touch with the state of the market which enables him to find the best markets for the products handled by the association.

"Besides reducing costs through large scale marketing, co-operation enables farmers to find facilities for the financing of marketing operations and in general it leads towards the elimination of waste, inefficiency and duplication of services which characterize the present marketing system. Besides the advantages enumerated above, organization places farmers in a position to deal on equal terms with other business interests. It has, at the same time, great educational advantages in that it brings farmers together, thus facilitating exchange of ideas and discussions of problems which are of vital interest to them."

WEEKLY BOOK REVIEW

BY JAMES W. DEAN
NEW YORK—Havelock Ellis has written a book called "The Dance of Life." This reviewer feels incapable of telling much more than that about the book, for Ellis has much to say and says it so concisely that it would be futile to try to condense it in a brief review. Specifically he deals with dancing, writing, thinking, religion and morals.

Dancing, Ellis says, springs from the impulse for expression. He seconds Plato's axiom, "A good education consists in knowing how to sing and dance well."

Dancing means bodily rhythm and bodily harmony to Ellis. Thus dancing is an art, life is an art, writing is an art and in the broader sense of the world religion and morals are arts. Dancing is a discipline. Life is a discipline.

Those who sing and dance to "Yes, We Have No Bananas," probably are not aware that they are disciplining themselves, but if their singing and dancing to that time is expression of themselves, they are practicing the art of discipline. This is not intended as a facetious application of the Ellis idea. It is simply a broad interpretation of it, an excursion along one tangent of his logic.

Writing, Ellis points out, is a compulsory part of our education and every ninecompoop feels he has become a writer of prose as soon as he puts his pen in ink. "That feeling," says Ellis, "is justified only in a very limited sense, and if we wish to count upon the condition of things today with that in an age when people wrote at the bidding from some urgent stimulus from within or without, we have at the outset to delete certainly over 55 percent of our modern so-called writers before we institute any comparison. The writers thus struck out, it may be added, cannot fail to include many persons of much note in the world."

It is true that great writers seldom quote for they find it difficult to mix an alien music of thought and speech with their own. Ellis points out. But it is the little writer rather than the great writer who seems never to quote, and the reason is that he is really never doing anything else.

In that passage Ellis furnishes the critical key to "The Dance of Life." His book is crammed with references to Plato, Montaigne, Schopenhauer, Newman, Bacon, Nietzsche, Aristotle, Marcus Aurelius, Bertrand Russell, Hume and scores of other great minds. Yet when he comes to consider religion and morals he seems unconsciously to repeat the Greek idea that art is entirely creative. He works out an ancient logic in a modern perspective and thus presents it to the reader as a new viewpoint.

All along I have felt that D. W. Griffith, the movie director, is much like some modern poet. I know now that he is like Padraic Colum. Colum's new book, "Castle Conqueror," is done in soft-focus imagery. The mental pictures he presents are as dim and yet as impressive as the photographs Griffith projects on the screen.

"Castle Conqueror" was the stronghold of a feudal Englishman in Ireland. Colum uses it as a symbol of the struggle between Irish tenants and the landed English. About this symbol he weaves a legend of a youth, Francis Gillick, chosen by fate to lead a countryside in rebellion and a girl, Brigid Moynagh.

Just as Griffith in his pictures drops the main thread of his narrative to display a vista of mountains or water, something of value only for its inherent beauty, just so does Colum leave off with his hero and heroine to give you some little story that puts the breath of Erin in your nostrils.

This Colum dallies along in 350 of his 375 pages, weaving a romance of silken thread and piling up an impending clash of arms, a rousing combat of men. Then in one paragraph he drops four decades of time and action. Francis Gillick is an old man, whose sons and grandsons have struck for a free Ireland and he is outside the picture. Brigid, who in girlhood had sacrificed her name for Gillick, is represented by her Brigid daughter.

Except for the sudden hiatus in action Colum has wrought an excellent book, a story with magic and music in it.

We can't rid ourselves of the war. We say "It's over" and after these several years we want to hear no more of it. But the war has left some mark on all of us and on all of literature. If current authors are to write of current lives the influence of the war cannot be denied. We can't leave a chasm in time.

"Tomorrow About This Time," by Grace Livingston Hill, is at bottom a story of a man's readjustment to life after the war. When Patterson Groves returns home his two nearly matured daughters (they are half-sisters) come to live with him. They are strangers to him and to each other.

In this position Groves vainly tries to evade his responsibilities to his daughters and an unhappy situation arises in the house. The selfish daughter leaves. The selfish daughter at last realizes her unworthiness and leaves to seek her sister. In the final reunion the reader has a tale of a man's redemption. "Tomorrow About This Time" is a penetrating study of human relationships. It would have been sounder logic, I believe, if it had stressed Groves' readjustment rather than his redemption in the closing chapter.

LAST MONDAY IS BIG NIGHT AT COPELAND

Playground Has Biggest Crowd of Season at Entertainment

Copeland Park playground directors report that Monday night was the biggest night in the history of the playground. Between five and six thousand people, parents and friends of the playground children, were on hand for the big event.

"This was the feature event of the year, and the fish pond was the big hit of the evening," said Miss Carol Turek in reporting the event today. There were two kinds of fish, minnows for a nickel and whales for a dime. The pond was literally swamped all through the evening, at least until the fish supply was exhausted. North side merchants contributed the fish, to make the pond a profitable affair. The money is to go for playground hand work supplies.

McConnell, the high light of the playgrounds, entertained on the high bar in addition to doing a clog and a ventriloquist act. Bekkedahl and Tucker assisted him on the high bar act. During this act Laura Thibbeau and Alice Wolk performed on the flying rings. It was quite as exciting as a three ring circus.

Music was not lacking, Moss and Bangsberg furnished some jazz with their banjo and mandolin while Dorothy Woods accompanied by four other girls entertained with ukuleles. Bill Kers, director of the grounds, did his Indian club act, which is as good as any similar act on the stage today.

The whole affair was a financial success, officials report that there was a complete sell-out of everything eatable on the grounds and spectators report that they were unusually well entertained. The splendid cooperation which the town people have given the playgrounds has made it possible for them to accomplish much this year.

Another feature of the evening was baseball.

In a fast exhibition game of indoor the Rubber Mills team of the North Side defeated the Frasers from West Avenue. The heavy hitting of the winners was the cause of the win, and the absence in the box of Christopher, the Frasers' star pitcher.

The Copeland Juniors clinched the championship in the Junior division by defeating West Avenue Juniors 8 to 0. The feature of the game was the pitching of "King Tut" Olson, who struck out 16 men and didn't allow a hit throughout the game.

The Wittenbergs of Copeland park would like to meet the Senior team of Hood street in a home and home series playing the first game this Friday.

GIRL HIKER FOUND POISONED ON ROAD FROM FENNIMORE

Ella Switak Identified in Milwaukee by Industrial School Heads

The body of a girl which has been viewed by hundreds who visited the Milwaukee morgue in an effort to establish identification, who at first was thought to have lived in La Crosse, was identified Monday night as that of Ella Switak of Fennimore, Wis. The identification was made by Mrs. Nellie Boyle and Miss Orphie Hoffland, officials of the Wisconsin Industrial school.

According to the two women, the girl had been sent to the school on July 15, 1919, and was released on June 1, 1923, when she became 21 years old.

After her release the girl was employed for a time as a domestic, but nothing definite has been established as to her activities for the past three weeks. Her father, Isaac Switak, is expected to reach Milwaukee Tuesday.

According to the coroner the girl died from the effects of poison. She was found in a dying condition on the roadside near here.

When news of the death of the girl hiker reached La Crosse, the police made every effort to identify her. No trace of the girl ever having lived here, however, could be discovered. Later, word came that the girl was from Fond du Lac, not La Crosse. Now the actual identification of the girl as being Ella Switak of Fennimore, Wis., has been made.

ESTATE OF OLAF BROWN IS SOLD AT AUCTION TUESDAY

Property Disposed of by C. J. Weber, Attorney for Administrator, at Courthouse

The estate of Olaf Brown of North La Crosse, was disposed of at public auction Tuesday morning on the courthouse steps by Clarence J. Weber, attorney for the administrator of the estate, George E. Brown, son of the late Olaf Brown. Mr. Brown died in January, 1920. His property consisted of two vacant lots on Onalaska avenue and a house on Prospect street and a lot in the town of Oliver, near Superior, Wis. There was not enough money in the estate to pay the claims against it and an order finally was obtained in probate court to sell the property. Mr. Brown is survived by two sons and two daughters. Albert Hausner bought the house, bidding $1,100, and the lot near Superior for $1,100. Kern Egan bought one of the Onalaska lots, which had a barn on it, for $340. F. E. Withrow bid in the other lot for $160.

ANTI-DRAINAGE MASS MEETING HERE WEDNESDAY

Project for Federal Park Along the Mississippi Meets With Approval Here

Frank Grover, president of the La Crosse County Rod and Gun Club, will act as chairman of the big anti-drainage mass meeting which will be held Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock at the Chamber of Commerce auditorium. Mr. Grover on Tuesday issued a statement saying that the executive committee of the Rod and Gun Club had endorsed most heartily the project for a federal park along the bottoms of the Mississippi from Lake Pepin to Rock Island, and he urged every member of the county association, as well as all interested citizens, to attend the meeting.

Will H. Dilg, president of the Izak Walton League of America, which is organizing the campaign for the federal park, will be the chief speaker at the meeting. Mr. Dilg is an upper river enthusiast, who has spent his vacations on the bass-waters between La Crosse and Red Wing for twenty years, and knows the sloughs and channels as well or better than most native fishermen.

"This anti-drainage project is a proposal that the county club has been working on for a long time," said Mr. Grover. "The local sportsmen have, I believe, done more both in the way of effort and money spent to preserve the wild-life breeding places than any other in the country. They were the fore-front of the fight against drainage of the Winnebago bottoms. Naturally we are heartily in favor of the park plan. Our executive committee has voted to affiliate with the Izak Walton League, because we realize that only by massing the work of all those interested in conservation can we put over a big thing like this."

Mr. Grover pointed out the immense benefit that would accrue to La Crosse should the park project be realized, in making this the center of the largest and most distinctive public playground in the nation.

TWENTY-THREE OF ESCAPED CONVICTS ARE RECAPTURED

Seventeen of Forty-one Who Broke Jail at Chester, Ill., Still at Large

CHESTER, Ill.—Twenty-three of the forty-one prisoners who escaped from the Illinois State Hospital for the Criminal Insane here Sunday night, have been recaptured, seventeen still being at large Tuesday. Poses consisting of guards of the Southern Illinois penitentiary nearby, deputy sheriffs and local authorities, continued their search for the convicts, who are believed to be hiding in the vicinity.

Officials of the institution joined state department officials in the investigation to determine who the leaders of the plot were, but nothing definite has been announced as to the result. It was rumored, however, that Walter ("Irish") O'Malley, who is serving a sentence for bank robbery, was seen to take a leading part in the break for liberty.

He is among the 23 recaptured. It was reported that his wife had visited him Sunday. He is charged with having stabbed one of the guards.

Ralph Dillard, another guard, James Denney, who was stabbed near the heart in a precarious condition, Dr. Frank Stufferfeld, superintendent, suffered a fractured arm.

PALMER, SHISLER TO BE ARRAIGNED SOME DAY WITHIN A WEEK

Frank Kleinertz also to Face Liquor Charges this Week, Probably Thursday

The liquor charges made by federal agents against Alderman Palmer and his partner, Clarence Shisler, in the operation of "The Alderman's Store," on Main street, probably will be heard before Clarence J. Weber, as justice of the peace, some time this week.

It is reported that F. E. Withrow, attorney for Palmer and Shisler, will ask for a dismissal of the charges on the grounds that Justice Weber has lost jurisdiction in the case because of not having set a date for the arraignment when the case was turned over to him by County Judge Brindley. Mr. Weber was out of the city for a week when the case was sworn away from Judge Brindley so that it was not possible for him to set a date for the hearing.

Frank Kleinertz, charged with transportation and sale of liquor, is to be arraigned before Justice Weber on Thursday. This case also was sworn away from Judge Brindley.

TEN JURY SEATS FILLED TODAY IN WHITFIELD CASE

CLEVELAND, Ohio.—Only two seats remained vacant in the jury-box Tuesday when a noon recess was called in the trial of John Leonard Whitfield. There remained only the tentative selection of two jurors and the seating of the alternate juror as the "thirteenth man" under the new jury law—a selection to which the defense attorneys announce they will object.

A subpoena was issued by County Prosecutor Stanton for Mrs. Mary Whitfield, known as the accused man's wife; her son, Albert Becker, and her daughter, Mrs. Mary Nicely. It is said the defense will seek to place Mrs. Whitfield on the witness stand and challenge the claim that her marriage to the prisoner was legal. Prosecutor Stanton wants to use her as a witness to prove Whitfield pocketed a 45-calibre automatic gun when he stepped into her room to say "Goodbye" before he started on his ride toward the police station with Patrolman Dennis Griffin on the morning of May 11.

GERMAN PRINCESS SENT TO PRISON ON CHARGE OF TREASON

Princess Marguerite von Hohenlohe-Oehringen Convicted for Part in Ehrhardt Escape

LEIPSIK.—By The Associated Press.—Princess Marguerite von Hohenlohe-Oehringen was convicted Tuesday of complicity in high treason and perjury for her part in the escape of Captain Ehrhardt, commander of the "Iron Brigade" during the Kapp Putsch of 1920. She was sentenced to six months' imprisonment. The princess, who observed her twenty-ninth birthday in jail last Saturday while awaiting trial, gave refuge to Captain Ehrhardt before his arrest last December. As Ehrhardt is accused of high treason for his part in the Kapp Putsch, the charge of complicity against the princess was based on her act in giving him domicile.

The perjury charge arose from her denial that she knew the former naval commander when it was shown in court, he was at the time living in her home near Munich. Ehrhardt escaped from the Leipzig prison about ten days ago and still is at large.

Mr. Hambacher reports that most of the tourists are bound for Northern Wisconsin and Minnesota and Port Arthur, Canada.

EVERY TEACHER A MEMBER SLOGAN OF STATE ASSOCIATION

Wisconsin Teachers' Organization Plans Campaign for New Members

MADISON, Wis., July 24.—Every teacher in the state is a member of the Wisconsin Teachers' Association. The association has adopted for an intensive membership campaign which will begin simultaneously with the opening of the schools this fall.

There are approximately 20,000 teachers in the public and private schools of the state, of which only 1,000 are members of the association. The association desires the membership of every teacher in working out its program looking to elevating the teaching profession and establishing higher standards of teaching efficiency.

Teachers will never receive salaries commensurate with the training they receive and the responsibility which they combine their strength and influence with the state, the national and international teachers' associations, who are planning for the campaign. The teachers must go into politics, they must present a solid front to the legislature; they must work to the end that men friendly to education are elected to public offices. Their own welfare demands it, and they owe it to their profession to which they are devoting their life and energy to seek to place it on the highest plane possible. Only through organization can this be accomplished. And we want this organization to be 100 per cent representative of the teaching profession in Wisconsin.

The association was first organized several years ago this month, four years prior to the organization of the National Education Association. It was re-organized in 1921. Its original membership numbered 4,000. It numbered 10,788, representing 16 local organizations.

EXPERT SWIMMER'S REWARD IS HIS ABILITY TO DO FANCY DIVES; THE SWAN AND JACK-KNIFE

BY LYDA M. SHEFFIELD

Director of Swimming, University of California Summer Session, and Co-Author of "Swimming Simplified"
FINAL ARTICLE—SWAN AND JACK-KNIFE DIVES

THE CORRECT SWAN DIVE. MISS SHEFFIELD, CAUGHT IN MID-AIR AS SHE MAKES THE DESCENT OF A SWAN DIVE.

SAN FRANCISCO—Warnings: Do not attempt fancy diving too soon in your career as a swimmer.

Before you are ready for the elementary fancy dives, you should be a complete master of at least one swimming stroke, of floating and of the elementary dives I explained in the fourth article of this series. Otherwise your attempts may end in disaster.

All fancy dives are based on three elementary fancy dives, the swan, the front jack-knife and the back jack-knife.

The first of these, the swan, is one of the prettiest and most graceful, and also one of the easiest to learn.

It can be done either from a springboard or from a platform. If from a board, be sure that it is at least three feet above the surface of the water.

For starting position, stand erect, arms at the sides of the body and with toes gripping the edge of the board or platform.

Next, take a deep inhalation and hold it.

New dive by springing upward and out, swinging the arms forward and up as you do so, finishing with them extended one toward each side. Hold this position until you reach the top of the curve you are making in the air.

As you start to descend—the proper descent, of course, is that formerly explained, head first so that you will enter the water at an angle of 45 degrees—bring the arms up over the head and assume the proper diving position with them. Thus you enter the water with the head down, arms extended and "covering" the ears, thumbs locked.

The starting position for the front jack-knife is the same as that for the swan.

In this dive, you jump with the body erect, obtaining the maximum amount of height.

When you reach the highest point, quickly bend the body forward at the waist, touching the ankles, with the legs straight and the toes pointed.

Hold this position for a moment, then straighten the body and enter the water in the correct manner described in the article on elementary diving.

The starting position for the back jack-knife is body erect, back toward the pool, heels well over the springboard, arms extended in front of you about shoulder-width apart.

While in this position, execute two or three test springs up and down to see that you have proper balance. This is done without taking the feet from the board.

Then forcibly swing the arms up and, at the same time, spring well up and back, clearing the board by at least three feet.

While in the air, bend the body forward, at the waist, touching the ankles, legs straight. Mold this position for a moment, then straighten the body and enter the water in the correct manner.

In the back jack-knife, remember that the forcible arm swing and the upward spring are essential, and that this dive should never be attempted unless the diver knows that he is able to jump at least three feet backward from the springboard. Otherwise you may have a bad collision with the board.

As these three dives are the basis for all the more fancy diving, I would advise you to practice on them until perfect. Then you can attempt variations and other dives. The best plan for learning the more advanced dives is by careful observation of good divers.

The work of re-registering is expected to be completed in about a month.

STRAND—TODAY

Tonight will be the last opportunity to follow Tom Mix through some thrilling scenes in "Stepping Fast," his latest William Fox picture which is at the Strand Theatre. In this film Tom plays the part of a young cowboy who inherits one-half of a gold mine hidden away in the ruins of the cliff-dwellers in the Arizona desert. The other half interest is held by the daughter of the cowboy's benefactor who is in China. He travels to Hong Kong to prevent a band of international crooks from getting the secret of the mine, and there engages in a tremendous fight to save the girl.

AT THE MAJESTIC TODAY

A glimpse of the troubles of a newspaper editor in a small western city is given to those who see "Playing It Wild," the newest Vitaphone William Duncan and Edith Johnson production which will be shown at the Majestic Theatre today and Wednesday.

Editors seldom had more than enough money to buy paper and ink in those towns which spring up in the far west, and the rich political "bosses" of the towns almost always tried to browbeat them into supporting their leadership regardless of whether it was for the good of the community or not. Duncan in the role of Jerry Hoskins finds just such a situation in Hub City when he rides into it looking for a job. How he gets control of the paper and by vigorously opposing the leader of the political "gang" defeats him, is told with many thrills and laughs in this splendid picture.

ROSEMARY THEBY VAMPS WITH THE SCREEN'S BEST

Vamps may come and vamps may go but Rosemary Theby vamps on forever. Miss Theby may not have the world fame of Theda Bara, Pola Negri or Nina Naldi but for eight years Rosemary has vamped consistently and the men of screen fame who have fallen victims of her allurements are indeed numerous.

In Edwin Carewe's "The Girl of the Golden West," a First National picture showing at the Rivoli Theatre Wednesday to Saturday Miss Theby essays the part of Nina Micholorena, a Spanish dancer in love with the bandit Ramon, and it is said her work is so finished that vamping may be said to have reached the stage of an art.

Dorothy Dalton in "The Law of the Lawless" is showing tonight for the last times at the Rivoli Theatre.

How to Look and Feel Bright in Hot Weather

When depressed by the heat and you want to freshen up for the afternoon or evening, just bathe the face in a lotion made by dissolving an ounce of pure powdered salicylic acid in a half pint of witch hazel. You will find this more refreshing than an hour's rest. As a wrinkle-remover the salicylic action is remarkably successful. Its farrows, as well as the face lines—whether due to age, illness, weather or worry—are immediately affected. Enlarged pores are reduced, flabby skin is "drawn in," facial contour is improved wonderfully. The simple ingredients of course can be had at any drugstore.

That the little English comedian has really earned his title of "the comedy king of two continents" is proved by the manner in which he captures his audience with this riot of joy. At the initial showing of the picture here he kept the huge crowd roaring with laughter from the time he first appeared on the screen until the final fadeout.

Here is a comedy that everyone should see. The kiddies will love it and the grownups will be treated with a laugh that will be remembered for a long, long time.

WITH THE MAJOR LEAGUES

CHICAGO, Ill.—By The Associated Press.—Only four games were played in the big leagues yesterday but the working teams made up in runs for their resting rivals. The Cubs, playing Pittsburgh, worked hard for eleven and a half innings, when the score was still three to three, and then got down to real business and rolled up nine runs as fast as they could get around the bases, winning, 12 to 3.

In Cincinnati the Reds were trimmed by St. Louis, 8 to 7, in a hard hitting battle, slipping a run in their chase up the percentage ladder after the league leading Giants, who defeated the lowly Phillies in Philadelphia, 5 to 4. The Cincinnati game belonged all to the Reds until Eppa Rixey blew up in the seventh inning and St. Louis ran off six counters.

In Philadelphia the local team hammered Hugh McQuillan out of the box in the sixth, but Ryan stepped in and stopped the Phillies' scoring while the Giants made six runs in the last four innings.

The Cleveland Indians insisted on hitting the ball continually in St. Louis and before the home team knew what had happened, had won the game 9 to 2. In the fourth Williams leaned on his eighteenth round tripper of the season, with Tobin on base. The Detroit game with Chicago was postponed because of rain. Denver Grishby, former outfielder of the Chicago Nationals who was sent to Wichita Falls, Texas, club, was knocked unconscious by a pitched ball in the game against Beaumont. Grishby has been playing a star game since going to the Texas league and has established a record as a slugger.

Kenneth Williams of the St. Louis Browns is making a strong bid to catch up with Babe Ruth of the Yankees for the home run honors. Kenneth bagged his eighteenth homer with George Uhle of Cleveland on the hill.

The record of Rogers Hornsby, the St. Louis Cardinals star, for hitting safely in consecutive games, was brought to a stop in the game against the Reds. Rogers failed to connect after hitting safely in twenty consecutive games.

HEAVY EARTHQUAKE DAMAGE REPORTED AT SAN BERNARDINO

LOS ANGELES, Calif.—Except at San Bernardino, Redlands, and vicinity, where considerable damage was reported, Southern California has almost forgotten the earthquake which shook the south half of the state late Sunday night. Outside of the San Bernardino region, where the tremor centered, it did little damage in the affected district, which was from San Diego on the south to Santa Barbara on the north, and as far east as the Arizona state line.

Ralph Arnold, geologist, discussing earthquakes in general said: "California will have more earthquakes, plenty of them. The earth's crust is still making geological history."

BATTERY B'S WEEKLY BULLETIN

Guard mounting was on the program for the Battery last night, and the boys enjoyed the opportunity to refresh their memory on this extremely important ceremony of a military camp.

Bea Mapl-Flaker

It's a great and growing fraternity, The "Mapl-Flakers." They meet every morning at the breakfast table—and what good times they have. Once you join the "Mapl-Flakers," you'll be a member forever—for Mapl-Flake is the "food that keeps you right." It is whole wheat—bran and all, enough bran to be a harmless, natural laxative. Mapl-Flake is a body-builder, full of the necessary mineral salts of phosphorus, iron and lime. It contains those life-giving vitamins which stimulate the appetite and then feed it.

$1000 in Prizes for Jingles

We are going to give $250 first prize and 164 other prizes to those who write the best four-line jingles telling how good Mapl-Flake is and how good it is for you. Try your hand, "Mapl-Flakers." Write a jingle, win a prize. Contest closes August 15, 1923. The more jingles you write, the better your chance for a prize. Ford Owners--Read This

By Frank L. McWade

There are in Rochester, N. Y., right now, over a thousand Ford cars that run "like Packards," and that which makes them run like Packards is McWade Oil—the oil which is revolutionizing the lubrication of automobile engines. Ford owners who are using it will tell you that it is the greatest lubricant ever placed in a Ford engine, BAR NONE; because there is no carbon trouble, no fouling of plugs, no chattering of brake bands. The engines have more pep and power on hills and their repair bills have been reduced an average of 75%. ASK THEM and they will tell you that IT IS ALL TRUE.

I WANT YOU TO TRY THIS REMARKABLE OIL. I want you to see for yourself that what they say about it IS TRUE. I want you to drive around to the station listed below and ask for ONE QUART OF McWADE OIL and a circular telling what it will do. Within five minutes after they put the oil in you should notice a difference in the running of your car. Then when you need oil again, have ANOTHER QUART PUT IN, and after running about 75 miles, drain all the oil and fill up with McWADE AND THEN you will realize why the users of this oil are so enthusiastic. TAKE MY WORD FOR IT AND TRY THIS OIL and see for yourself what it means to the running and upkeep of your car. It will prove a revelation.

The following authorized station in La Crosse will gladly wait on you.
